Tim,
This is official notification from the SC Department of Social Services Division of Family Assistance that South Carolina does wish to adopt the 2012 ABAWD waiver. Last year this notification to FNS SERO was all that was necessary. I am assuming that the same applies this year. Thanks,
Sandy Allen
SCDSS SNAP Director

Attached please find the memo regarding 15% exemptions available October 1, 2011 to agencies administering SNAP Employment and Training. Also attached is the recent post to the PartnerWeb regarding availability of FY 2012 ABAWD waivers for which all SERO states qualify. Note that you need to notify SERO by August 31, 2011 if you wish to adopt the 2012 waiver.

Please let us know if you have any questions.
